

Retractable Grilles

PRODUCT
INFORMATION

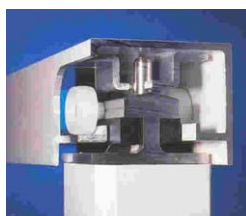

We supply and fit the Extendor range of retractable security grilles which we believe to be the finest available both from the security and aesthetic points of view.

The range has three basic products with a choice of security levels. The Diamond link is an excellent deterrent with good physical protection for internal installations. The more robust Classic product provides protection for higher risk areas. The Elite range offers enhanced security against attack from hacksaws and drills.

Basic configurations are single grid, opening from left to right or right to left and the bi parting unit in which the two grids lock into each other, normally in the centre of the window.

Additional configurations are available to facilitate their use in almost all situations.

Fully entrapped grille with aluminium alloy carriers and guides eliminating the use of fragile plastic components which can shatter under attack.

Stainless steel axles and fittings.

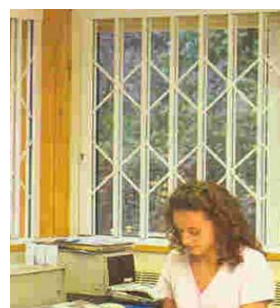

Drill and hacksaw resistant components.

No external rivets as these are vulnerable to being drilled, chiselled and levered off, a fundamental flaw in most other grilles.

Standard sloped bottom track showing shoot bolt locking which secures grille from top to bottom.

Also allows locking in open position for added safety.

Diamond configuration shown in closed and retracted positions.

Options include recessed satin anodised handles, key alike locks for multi unit installations and removable bottom tracks.

A wide range of powder coated colours are also available.
